Property Description

This 4-bedroom, 4-bathroom home is located in Pacific Heights, set above Potrero with open views toward the ocean and surrounding hills. From the moment you get here, you notice how quiet and private it feels. There's a constant breeze, and most of the spaces are oriented toward the view, so you're always connected to what's outside. The home was built with solid concrete construction and designed to open up naturally to the outdoors, which makes a big difference in how it lives day to day. Main Living Area The main level is where everything comes together. Kitchen, dining, and living space all connect and open directly to a covered terrace and the pool. It's simple and functional — whether you're having a quiet morning or people over in the evening, it flows really well. The kitchen has custom hardwood cabinetry, stainless appliances, and a breakfast bar that keeps things casual and connected.
