Property Description

An elegant residence designed around openness, perspective, and flow, this home is bathed in natural light and framed by expansive architectural openings that draw the landscape inward. Large-format windows create uninterrupted views across lush fairways designed by Robert Trent Jones II and part of an Audubon-certified golf landscape, allowing sky and rolling greens to become an integral part of the interior experience. The architecture emphasizes generous volume, high ceilings, and clean lines, resulting in spaces that feel expansive, balanced, and refined. Scheduled for completion in April 2026, the design is intentionally timeless—equally suited as a refined family residence or a high-end rental property. Natural light moves fluidly through the living areas throughout the day, while circulation within the home feels intuitive and effortless. A private elevator connects the two levels discreetly, supporting comfort and long-term livability without disrupting the architectural flow.
