Property Description

This farm is a collection of eight spectacularly attributed pieces of nature occupying just 14 acres of the property, nestled on a private hilltop in the lush tropical rainforest within Costa Rica's Central Pacific Coast, and overlooking the renowned Herradura Bay, all these eight parcels being part of the 74 acres property offered. It is a location to be developed by visionary investors as an exclusive and secluded retreat, for people who really care about the environment and nature and enjoy living with the privacy of no other houses around. It could allow building up to eight large mountain homes overlooking the Herradura Bay and the surrounding pristine forest. Potential alternative use of this farm could be a mix between homes and a small mountain hotel, a glamping complex or even a tourism adventure park. For building houses, each parcel is ready to apply for the normal process of permission.
