Property Description

This property is located on Calle La Barca in Tárcoles, a quiet area surrounded by nature. It's an ideal spot for those seeking a serene environment near the beaches of Costa Rica's Central Pacific coast. Tárcoles is also known for its natural landscapes, its proximity to Carara National Park, and its famous bridge over the Tárcoles River, home to numerous crocodiles. The location offers convenient access to local amenities and the region's natural beauty. The approximate distance between the property on Calle La Barca in Tárcoles and Jacó is 23 to 25 kilometers, depending on the specific route taken. By car, the journey typically takes between 25 and 30 minutes, following the Carretera Costanera Sur (Route 34), which directly connects both locations. It's just a few meters from the Cerro Lodge Hotel, placing it in a privileged setting surrounded by nature and close to one of the most important areas for bird and wildlife viewing.
