Designed as a true botanical retreat, the estate is surrounded by flourishing tropical gardens, exotic native plants, and a fully automated irrigation system that keeps the property vibrant year-round. One of Villa Shanti's most remarkable features is its expansive private food forest, home to more than 100 varieties of exotic fruit trees and edible plants. In addition to beloved tropical favorites such as mango, coconut, pineapple, banana, and papaya, the estate also showcases rare species seldom found in Costa Rica, including miracle fruit, cinnamon, jackfruit, and a wide collection of medicinal and culinary plants — creating a truly unique farm-to-table experience.
