Property Description

Welcome to your private paradise for sustainable living in the heart of Costa Rica. This exceptional property is much more than a home—it is a unique retreat where comfort, nature, and independence come together in perfect harmony. Set on a generous 17,508 m² (4.33-acre) property, this estate offers complete privacy surrounded by lush tropical nature and breathtaking scenery. The property is fully off-grid and equipped with a modern photovoltaic system including battery storage, providing reliable and sustainable energy year-round. In addition, Starlink high-speed internet ensures a fast and stable connection, making it ideal for remote work, digital nomads, or anyone who wants to stay connected while enjoying a peaceful lifestyle in nature. The estate features two independent residences built using the traditional Wattle and Daub construction method. This centuries-old building technique combines a framework of woven wood with natural materials such as clay and earth, creating durable, energy-efficient structures with authentic character and timeless charm that blend seamlessly into the surrounding landscape.
