Property Description

Calle Bugarvillea sits at the heart of Ojochal, Costa Rica, one of the Southern Pacific's most celebrated small towns and a genuine gem of the Southern Zone. This two-bedroom home with a private pool and sweeping mountain views walks the line perfectly between full-time residence and income-producing retreat, which is exactly how the current owners have used it. You are steps from international restaurants, groceries, and expat-friendly services that make daily life here genuinely comfortable rather than logistically challenging. The Community The neighborhood on Calle Bugarvillea blends long-term locals and international residents in a way that feels welcoming rather than transactional. At this price point, in this location, the home works as a primary residence, a part-time escape, or a short-term rental with real earning potential. Few in-town lots in Ojochal offer this combination. The Grounds The 720 m2 fenced and gated lot is fully two-wheel drive accessible right from town, so you get the private jungle atmosphere without the gravel-road commute.
