Property Description

The majestic mountains overlooking the Valle General of Perez Zeledon have witnessed surprising growth in recent years. Over in Santa Elena you have the Rise Costa Rica planned sustainable development breaking ground. The Vistas de Chirripo residential community remains as popular as ever. Rivas is perennially popular with Cerro Chirripo trekkers. And in the area of Santa Teresa de Cajon you have the AltaGracia resort, a 5-star equestrian-themed resort that has been named one of the top luxury resorts in Central and South America. This gorgeous piece of 14.5 acres, sits directly up from AltaGracia. You are literally looking down on the guests there, as well as the entire Valle General, spread out before your eyes. The land is gently sloping, with flat spots in many areas, making it completely usable. The owners have for years been implementing a reforestation project on the land and the results of that can be clearly seen in the photos.
